FileMaker 15 Launched Today!

We're excited by the release of FileMaker 15, publicly announced today. This version brings many enhancements to the development platform which allow us to deliver to you an even more functional administration system.

Of note is the ability to secure the keychain on iOS devices behind touch id or unlock code, increased use of SSL certificates to harden security, support for Android Web Browsers on Android devices and connect to more types of SQL databases for data interchange.

As usual we caution against upgrading immediately, but recommend allowing us to complete testing Denbigh Administration in real world environments before committing to the new version. Our testing on pre-release copies of version 15 have been very positive so we are optimistic that we will encourage your upgrade to this new version shortly.

Please note also, that with the release of v15, FileMaker will also be discontinuing support for the older v12 on September 23rd this year.
